- 19:42:49 The Friday night Mansion movie is Rita Hayworth & Glenn Ford in the film noir classic "Gilda." By:hughhefner
- 19:46:55 Born Margarita Carmen Cansino in Brooklyn in 1918, Rita began dancing professionally with her father at the age of 12. By:hughhefner
- 19:49:53 At 13, Rita was dancing in Mexican night spots in Tijuana, where she was eventually noticed by the head of production at Fox. By:hughhefner
- 19:56:22 Rita made her screen debuting 1935, playing bit parts in a number of films using her own name. By:hughhefner
- 19:58:16 By her own admission, Rita was attracted to abusive men, possibly because her first sexual experience was with her father. By:hughhefner
- 20:04:05 In 1937, to escape from her father, she married a car salesman & con man, twice her age. To advance her career, he had her sleep with men. By:hughhefner
- 20:06:17 One man Rita refused to sleep with was Harry Cohn, the head of Columbia. He put her under contract anyway, & made her a star. By:hughhefner
- 20:08:48 Changing her name to Rita Hayworth, & her hair style & color, led to better roles, starting with "Only Angels Have Wings." By:hughhefner
- 20:11:30 In the early 1940s, Rita's star status was established in "Blood & Sand," & musicals with Fred Astaire & Gene Kelly. By:hughhefner
- 20:12:25 New York at last ! By:formichetti
- 20:14:30 In 1942, Rita had an affair with Victor Mature, her co-star in "My Gal Sal," & separated from her husband. By:hughhefner
- 20:16:06 when she obtained her divorce, she announced her engagement to Mature, but married Orson Welles instead. By:hughhefner
- 20:19:29 Rita's marriage to Welles was short lived. She had an affair with her co-star, Glenn Ford, during the making of "Gilda" in 1946. By:hughhefner
- 20:24:16 "Gilda" is Rita Hayworth's most famous film & the one with which she is most identified. By:hughhefner

- 20:26:17 Rita complained, "Every man I've known has fallen in love with 'Gilda,' and wakened with me."
By:hughhefner
- 20:32:45 I co-produced a documentary on Rita Hayworth with Turner titled "Rita" in 2004, narrated by Kim Basinger. By:hughhefner
